SEATTLE'S PROBLEM

PROVIDING ENTERTAINMENT IN PLACE OF ABOLISHED SALOONS

As saloons are to be abolished in Seattle, on and after January 1, the president of the library board and Mayor Gill, of that city, are working on a plan to establish branch libraries in different parts of the city, with meeting and lounging rooms, in the districts where saloons are most abundant. It is held that, as the closing of the saloons will deprive many men of any place of amusement or diversion, something wholesome and innocent should be provided these men. There is merit in a movement like this. The hankering that some men have for saloons might be removed altogether if they were given a harmless, entertaining substitute for the saloon—a clean, respectable, unobjectionable lounging place, where they might congregate to read, to converse or to play innocent games. Human nature craves diversion. Unless it gets innocent entertainment, it is very likely to accept what is not so innocent. This is an angle of reform work that should be given due attention in every city where systematic effort is put forth to banish what is vicious and to build up and foster what is clean and without blemish.

TODAY AND TOMORROW

The anniversary number of the Glendale Evening News will be sold for 5 cents per copy today and tomorrow only and after that the price will be 25 cents per copy.

The publisher of the Evening News who is chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Publicity committee has felt it his duty to assist in every way possible to advertise Glendale, and for that reason he has thought it best to reduce the price of the anniversary number to 5 cents for a sufficient length of time to give every person wishing to use these copies as means of advertising Glendale, a chance to purchase them at a very low price.

Every resident of Glendale and vicinity will entertain relatives and friends from the east within the next six months, and why not have on hand a dozen or more of the anniversary numbers for the purpose of handing to these visitors. An investment today or tomorrow of 50 or 60 cents will give you a supply of these copies that will be appreciated by your eastern guests. Even if you invest several dollars in the purchase of these papers you will only be placing yourself in a better position to advertise Glendale.

At 5 cents per copy the publisher of the news is bearing fully 80 per cent of the advertising that it is possible to do by the distribution of these papers. So please join with us in the distribution of these copies today and tomorrow.

RESIGNED TO ANNEXATION

Evidently Eagle Rock is already resigned to becoming a part of Los Angeles. A communication to the Eagle Rock Sentinel says:

Editor Sentinel: At the last election the city and county consolidation carried. Pursuant to these acts the city of Los Angeles is now taking steps towards the uniting of the city and county. This proposition, I dare say, will be voted upon within the next year or year and a half. Already our neighboring valley is voting upon the question of annexation to Los Angeles.

I call the attention of the readers of your paper to these facts simply that they may inquire whether we as a city have done all that we want to do in the way of public improvements before we lose our identity in the big city. To be specific, have we done all the street work which should be done? Are we planning on extending the lighting system to all parts of the valley where needed? Are we going to make adequate accomodations for our school, as our neighbors are doing, before we lose the opportunity to do so?

These and many other questions and problems should be solved before the city and county consolidation plans go very far. M. L. R.

MRS. CASPARY

Mrs. Christine E. Caspary, wife of E. A. Caspary, passed away at her home, 311 Gardena avenue, Tropico, at 7:30 a. m. Thursday, February 25, 1915, at the age of 41 years. Mrs. Caspary was a native of Norway.

Funeral services in charge of the Pulliam Undertaking company will be held Saturday afternoon at two o'clock at the home. Interment in Forest Lawn cemetery.

Anniversary numbers five cents per copy today and tomorrow only. They will be sold for 25 cents per copy after tomorrow.

VALUE OF THE FILM

PROMISES TO PLAY LARGE PART IN FUTURE SOCIAL AND RELIGIOUS LIFE

How little we realize the vast debt of gratitude we owe for the benefits showered upon us in the present day; or of the subtle workings of a divine providence to draw mankind from all quarters of the globe into one glorious brotherhood. In that great scheme one detects a place for the motion picture.

Until the railroad and steamship came, men lived in isolated groups, believing implicitly the weird tales that venturesome travelers told of strange human creatures who inhabited other countries. The increase in travel put the quietus on these exaggerated notions, and we came to know that in other lands dwelt men and women with speech and customs not unlike our own. Naturally, we felt a bit friendlier. Photography brought us reproductions of these people, and we were quick to note that their physical characteristics were strikingly familiar. Then the telegraph and the cable enabled us to keep in daily touch with them through the newspapers. We were amazed to learn that our thoughts ran in similar channels. The telephone permitted us to talk to one another over startling distances, and we were drawn closer together through the magnetism of the human voice. But ordinary photographs left something for the imagination to supply, and imagination could not endow the plastic reproductions with life. The motion picture brings them to us, pulsing with animation, and adds another link in that intangible chain that seems to be slowly but surely binding the human race into one great family.

The traditional prejudices against races and creeds that ignorance and credulity engendered are fast disappearing under the all-searching eye of the camera and the white light of the projection lantern. The slanders we believed, and the eulogies we disbelieved, have no further influence upon our judgment. The people of the earth, their customs, their religions, their daily lives, and even their histories, are presented to us, and we form our opinions from authentic facts. If the work ended there the film would be entitled to rank as a great educator; but the end is virtually beyond our conception. We may only honor it for what it is doing today.

It behooves us, then, to delve a little into the history of the motion picture before discussing its present value as an educational factor, or attempting to predict its future possibilities, because the human intellect can form no accurate judgment of the present or future without a knowledge of the past.

The mental journey back is very brief. The first thing that impresses one is the sudden way in which the unusual is accepted as the usual. And then comes the notion that the things which grow commonplace must lie fallow for a short period, until the restless insistence of mankind for variety—another way of describing improvement—stimulates the intellect to provide it.

The first crude efforts to produce motion through photography began but twenty-five years ago—I mean, of course, the attempts that gave birth to the present great industry of motion pictures. The old-time zoetrope, and the experiments of Edward Muybridge with a battery of cameras, had little to do with the invention of William Friese Greene, of London, England, which showed a human face in motion in a photographer's window in Sloane street. This was back in 1889, and almost simultaneously the experiments of that great master thinker, Thomas A. Edison, resulted in the kinetoscope. A machine known as the mutoscope appeared about the same time, and probably aided in rounding out the idea; but it remained for George Eastman to devise the films for the photographs before they could aspire to their present perfection.

Like most of the benefits bestowed upon us, the evolution of the motion picture began in a lowly way. The absurd and almost valueless subjects selected by early manufacturers were gradually replaced by interesting films that take us into the domains of science, history, travel, literature and drama, until today we can sit in the semi-twilight of magnificently appointed theaters and have the wonders of the world flashed before us upon the screen. The fanciful magic carpet of the "Arabian Nights" that bore one to any desired place has been outdone—the film brings the place to us.

But now that every neighborhood has its theater, the miracle of it is forgotten, and we accept the most

VISIT EXPOSITION PARK

EXHIBITS ARE INTERESTING AND EDUCATIVE—ANCIENT, MEDIEVAL AND MODERN

Glendale people who have never visited Exposition Park in Los Angeles have neglected their educational opportunities. Exhibits have been assembled in the buildings in the park, that are very interesting and educative.

In the state exposition building the products of California are shown, exhibits of fruits, flowers, grains, lumber, minerals and manufactured articles from the various counties being nicely arranged and well displayed. A visit to this building gives one an idea of California's splendid resources and industries that can be obtained no other way in such a short time. This building is open from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. daily.

The exhibits in the museum are classified in three departments, history, science and art. Many private collections of curios commemorating the early history of California have been loaned as well as exhibits from foreign countries.

In this building are the skeletons of prehistoric animals taken from the La Brea ranch and with many other natural history specimens form one of the most interesting collections that can be seen anywhere. The room in which the paintings are displayed is an ever changing delight, the exhibits of different artists having a place on the walls at different times. The art lover may easily satisfy his longing for good pictures by frequent visits to this gallery. The museum is open from 10 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., except Wednesdays, 10 to 12 and Sundays and holidays, when the hours are 2 to 5.

The new state armory which is also included in this group of buildings is open Sundays and holidays from 2 to 5 and is an interesting place to visit. There are also picnic grounds, baseball diamonds, tennis courts, etc., for the use of the public and there is no charge whatever to these buildings or grounds.

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS

Glendale Evening News subscribers in certain sections of Glendale and vicinity have instructed the Evening News carrier boys to leave the News in R. F. D. mail boxes, and the boys, wishing to comply with the request of patrons, have been doing this. The following communication to the Evening News from the Burbank postmaster is evidence that it is against the rules of the postoffice department to have any articles, other than United States mail, deposited in these boxes. Read the letter.

Burbank, Cal., Feb. 25, 1915

Editor Glendale Evening News,

Dear Sir:

On Feb. 3, 1915 you were advised by this office that your paper (The Glendale Evening News) was being placed in rural boxes R. D. No. 1, which emanates from this office, and for which the required postage was not properly placed thereon. Carrier complains that papers are still being placed in said boxes, and I respectfully request that you take this matter up with your carrier and advise him to the effect that continued violation will compel this office to take the matter up with the postmaster general, Washington, D. C.

I beg to remain,

ENTERTAINS FOR BRIDE

Mrs. J. H. Seaman of 112 N. Central avenue entertained with a luncheon Wednesday in honor of Mrs. Jesse H. Shreve, a recent bride, of San Diego. Pink roses and ferns were used in decoration and the dainty course luncheon was served at one o'clock, covers being laid for Mrs. Shreve, Mrs. Edw. M. Mackey of Pasadena, Mrs. Howard of Chicago, Mrs. Edw. H. Weston, Mrs. Oliver J. Merrill, Mrs. Clay Seaman, Mrs. E. J. Morgan and the hostess.

The afternoon was spent in conversation and Mrs. Weston sang several beautiful selections.

Mr. and Mrs. Shreve are on their way to San Diego after a couple of weeks spent at Mission Inn, Riverside, Arrowhead Springs, Los Angeles and Glendale.

BROWN AND CURRY EXTEND INVITATION

Evangelists Brown and Curry, who are conducting union evangelistic meetings at the corner of Maryland avenue and Third street, have invited members of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce and members of the Merchants' association to attend the tabernacle meetings in a body next Tuesday evening. Undoubtedly these organizations will respond to the invitation with large delegations.

HIGH SCHOOL BREAKS IN

STUDENTS LED BY BAND ENTER ENTHUSIASTICALLY INTO TABERNACLE SERVICE

(By Publicity Com.)

The high school broke into the Brown and Curry tabernacle revival with tremendous enthusiasm last night. Several hundred strong, led by their own band of music, the irrepressible bunch marched to the big wooden structure on the corner of Maryland and Third where they re-formed and entered the tabernacle in splendid order and were greeted by hearty outbursts of spontaneous cheering and clapping. The major part of the preliminary song service was given over to the student body. There were several selections by the band, yells for Glendale and Glendale's schools, even Brown and Curry came in for a round and finally, who would believe it, "Tipperary" rolled over the heads of the assembled multitude. One of Mr. Curry's feet moved so vigorously and rhythmically that for the sake of the cause a brother clergyman crawled up behind and with a firm hand gripped the recalcitrant foot so that the unruly member once more settled down on the straight and narrow path.

It did not take many minutes for Brown and Curry to make the guests of the evening feel right at home. These big brothers believe in enthusiasm and greatly appreciated the spirit of vim and push displayed by Glendale's coming leaders. It is safe to say that the student body will cast its vote unanimously for Brown and Curry.

At the Thursday afternoon session Rev. Hartsell led in prayer with his usual pathos.

Evangelist Brown reviewed the first lecture on "The Ministry and Work of the Holy Spirit," giving in rapid outline the truth respecting the person and attributes of the Spirit.

The afternoon address treated the relationship of the Holy Spirit to the God-head; to the Old and New Testaments, and to the church.

On the mystery of the unity of the trinity the teacher made it clear that three gods were not implied. In the olden time God was known as the Creator, the great "I am." Later God was manifested in the flesh in the person of Jesus Christ, but Christ never once referred to himself as another God. Then at Pentecost, the birthday of the Holy Spirit, came God, the Holy Ghost, but never did the Holy Ghost or the apostles refer to the coming of the blessed Comforter as the coming of another God.

The relation of the Holy Spirit to the Old and New Testaments was made very clear. In the old the Spirit was transitory, operating for a certain purpose, through certain agents, for certain service and at a certain time. In the New Testament the Holy Spirit is the abiding one, sent for the whole church for all occasions. The reference in Acts 2: 14 is important in this connection.

Numerous references in Acts were given to show the relationship of the Holy Spirit to the church. The account of the transformation which took place when the Holy Spirit came upon the company in the upper room, turning cowards into the boldest of preachers, was inspiring. So also was the Elijah and Elisha climax based on II Kings 2.

"We can have the power if we go all the way."

Evangelist Ireland of Pasadena led in the evening prayer. Mr. Brown welcomed two delegations, one from the high school, the other from Burbank. This is the second visit from the delightful town of Burbank.

By vote the high school requested Mr. Curry to sing "Perfect Day," a very appropriate song for the occasion.

"One thing thou lackest," Mark 10:21, was used as a text for a powerful appeal to the young.

After giving the setting of his text Evangelist Brown called attention, first, to the fact that this seeker was a young man. Statistics were quoted to show that only one in a hundred find Christ after twenty-five, only one in a thousand after forty, and they who pass the sixtieth milestone have only one chance in ten thousand of finding Christ, who alone can bring them to the better world.

To save a man past middle life means the salvation of one soul; to save a young life means the salvation of one soul, plus a life.

The appeal to the young to give their potential lives to Christ was overwhelmingly convincing.

In the second place, it was remarked that this young man was rich. The tragedy of poverty was contrasted with the tragedy of riches. There is the tragedy of the automobile as well as the tragedy of the beggar in the gutter; the tragedy of silks and satins as well as the tragedy of rage; the tragedy of starved souls

BUSTLE AND STIR IN SOCIAL LIFE OF NEIGHBORING CITY ON SOUTH

It is truly a happy boy or girl whose birth anniversary occurs on Washington's birth anniversary, and more especially when a party is given to commemorate the event. Paul Morgan, who reached his twelfth milestone Monday, was thus so delightfully entertained at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morgan on Acacia avenue, when a number of Paul's young friends were invited to celebrate the anniversary. The pretty room was prettily decorated in the national colors. The most unique and charming decorations were in the dining room where every feature was suggestive of the natal anniversary of Washington, while the birthday cake of the young host was prettily decorated in flags and occupied the place of honor on the table, over which was gracefully arranged a red, white and blue covering.

Kewpies at either corner of the tables were dressed to represent George Washington with cocked hat, knee breeches and gun.

Martha Washington was carefully copied in the pretty oldtime custom of the long ago. From the birthday cake radiated red, white and blue satin ribbons which eventually terminated at places for the guests. These were red, white and blue candy tripods from which were suspended miniature kettles of bonbons underneath which lay candy hatchets. The favors were dainty flowerpots filled with layers of red and white ices, surmounted by chocolate colored ices, representing the soil, in the center of which was arranged a cherry tree growing candied cherries.

Delighted, well, these dear young people simply bubbled over with mirth and glee and thoroughly enjoyed the minutest detail of the unique decorations so carefully arranged by Mrs. Morgan, assisted by her daughter, Miss Helene Morgan, and Miss Elsie Anderson.

Many juvenile games were enjoyed and the afternoon was one glad sweet happy song for young Paul and his guests, who included Misses Erma Hollace Lucas, Helen Harting, Geraldine Bowers, Norma Frederickson, Helen Rebecca Chapman and Mary Clare Morgan. Masters Edwin Cooke, Eugene Muhleman, Budwell Martin, Eugene Boring, Wesley Kuhule, Billy Buster, Robert Chapman and Homer Morgan.

Mrs. Jennie Ritchie and her sister, Miss Bessie Phillips, were charming hostesses at a pretty dinner party at their home Wednesday evening, complimentary to Miss Helen Wolcott, leading lady for the Bosworth moving picture company. Miss Wolcott and Miss Bessie Phillips were roommates while attending the University of Colorado. Miss Wolcott and her mother are residing in Los Angeles for a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Tuppen entertained as their over Sunday guests at their home on North San Fernando Boulevard, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Webb and Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Samples, Mrs. Samples being a sister of Mrs. Tuppen. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Webb and Mrs. Samples have but recently come to Los Angeles from Denver, Colo., and will remain in California indefinitely.

Mrs. Mary Chadwick accompanied by her daughters Mrs. Robert Danner and Miss Florence Chadwick were the guests at a dinner party given by Mrs. Claude Beck of Eagle Rock on Thursday.

MRS. BARTLETT HOSTESS

Quite an elaborate and delightful affair was the party given by Mrs. H. E. Bartlett of 101 Brand Blvd., on Thursday afternoon in honor of her cousin, Mrs. E. J. Roberts of Chicago who is visiting here. The rooms were beautifully decorated with sweet peas, shasta daisies and ferns. The afternoon was spent in playing cards, the prizes being won by Mrs. Charles Homer Temple and Miss Rosemary Button whiie the consolations went to Mrs. Gregg and Mrs. George Mitchell. Dainty refreshments were served and a number of musical numbers enjoyed. Among the guests of the day were Mrs. E. J. Roberts, guest of honor and Mrs. Bartlett's sister, Miss Patrick of Santa Barbara, Mrs. George Mitchell, Mrs. Alex Mitchell, Mrs. V. Price Brown, Mrs. A. W. Beach, Mrs. Guthrie, Mrs. Cross, Mrs. W. W. McElroy, Mrs. John Robert White, Mrs. C. O. Pulliam, Miss Johnson, Mrs. Daniel Campbell, Mrs. R. A. Blackburn, Mrs. Church, Mrs. David L. Gregg, Mrs. Wash Hunt, Mrs. J. M. Border, Mrs. A. W. Dow, Miss Myra Bartlett, Mrs. Alex Lord, Mrs. C. G. Farrow, Mrs. Charles Homer Temple and Miss Button.

EAGLE ROCK CLUB

WOMEN CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY OF CLUB BY OPENING OF FINE NEW CLUB HOUSE

The opening of the new club house at Kenilworth avenue and Colorado Boulevard by the Women's Twentieth Century club of Eagle Rock on Thursday evening was a most interesting and noteworthy affair, and is surely a great achievement by the ladies of the club. The beautiful building follows the English style of architecture, is of one story, with a large pergola on the north; it is a shake covered building, with great cement porches and contains a large assembly room, capable of seating more than five hundred, a banquet room, reception room, large kitchen and pantry and has a large stage, with dressing rooms, and the property is easily worth $12,000.

There were about four hundred people in attendance at the opening on Thursday evening, which was the twelfth birthday of the founding of the club. The invocational prayer was given by Mrs. Hoyt, of the Congregational church, and was very beautifully given. Then there was an address of greeting from the president, Dr. Myrtle Phinney. Mr. Godfrey Edwards, of the firm of Edwards & Wildey who constructed the building, turned over the keys to Mrs. Wm. Weir, acting chairman of the building committee, and she in turn handed them over to the president. Mrs. Blanda-Banks Colburn gave a delightful original reading on "Our Inglenook" and there was an address by Mrs. W. J. Cooke, who gave a short history of the club from its inception, twelve years ago, and told of the work of building the club house and how it has all been brought about through the individual efforts of the members. There were several beautiful vocal selections by Miss Anna and Miss Frances Herzog, accompanied by their father, and the Eagle Rock string orchestra played. Later there was an informal reception, with light refreshments and a pleasant time for everyone. A number of Glendale friends attended the opening.

There will be a concert given under the auspices of the Auditorium Furnishing Fund committee on Wednesday evening, March 3d, at 8:30. This concert will be given entirely by professional talent and promises to be a treat for all who attend. After the program there will be informal dancing and the Glendale friends are invited to attend the concert and see the new club house.

TALENTED VIOLINIST

People at the Sanitarium have been exceedingly fortunate of late in having a most talented violinist with them in the person of Miss Wessels, a sister-in-law of Mrs. Wessels, who is bookkeeper at the Sanitarium. This little violinist comes from South Africa, but she had been studying in England under one of the Masters until conditions in that country made it necessary for her to leave. She joined her relatives here and on different occasions she has charmed the people of the Sanitarium with her wooing of sweet strains from her instrument.

Last evening Miss Wessels assisted by Prof. Miller and Mr. Bond gave the following program at the Sanitarium. It is hoped that she may be heard in public soon.

Piano duet, Sonato, Beethoven.
iolin solo, Mazur, Mlynarski.
Violin solo, Serenade, Drdla.
Piano solo, Nocturne, Chopin.
Violin solo, Minuett, Beethoven.
Piano solo, Gavotte, Handel.
Violin solo, Airs Hoagrois, Nachez.

SHAVER GROCERY CO. TAKE AN ACTIVE INTEREST IN CALIFORNIA BEAUTIFUL CAMPAIGN

The Shaver Grocery Co., located near the corner of Broadway and Glendale avenue, are certainly doing their share to make California the "State Beautiful" as they put on sale this week 2500 rose bushes, which they are selling at the extremely low price of 5c each. Last year Shaver's sold 2500 of the same kind of bushes—making in all 5000 rose bushes that have been distributed by this one agency in the past twelve months in Glendale and vicinity.

VISIT ALHAMBRA FRIENDS

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Oliver of 124 Howard street enjoyed an automobile ride over to Alhambra early this week, where they visited some old friends, Mr. and Mrs. George Young. Mr. Young is a cement contractor of Alhambra and had not seen Mr. and Mrs. Oliver for several years.

KEEP CLOSE IN TOUCH WITH WHAT IS GOING ON

There is more trouble and there are more misunderstandings arise from not keeping close in touch with what is going on than arise from any other source. The schools are criticised by men and women who do not keep in close touch with what is going on in the schools. Gossip is the source of information relied upon. The city administration is criticised largely by a class of people who do not keep in touch with what is going on in the different departments of the city government. A visit to the various departments will satisfy the visitor that clerks and assistants are busy every hour of the day and that the city's business is being cared for in an excellent manner.

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating," and so the knowing of what is going on in public offices is only possible by keeping in touch with the workings of these offices. Criticisms are in order, but they should be made only after an intelligent investigation has been made.

THE RELIGION WE WANT

Mrs. C. P. Brice requests the publication of the following poem written by her aunt, Mrs. Annie D. Rogers, some years ago and which Mrs. Brice considers applicable at the present time:

We want the religion that is always the same,
When big meetings are over perceiveth no change;
Firmness with faithfulness, loving each other,
Not like the chameleon, ever changing its color.

The religion that never doth grumble or fret,
And when duty demands doth quicken the step;
Noiseless, yet refreshing as the dew on the grass,
Sounding no trumpet as onward we pass.

We want the religion that softens the eye,
That brightens the face like the rainbow in the sky;
Throwing beautiful rays where sorrow is found,
Leaving no shadow on any around.

The religion that maketh one gentle and mild,
That humbleth the heart as that of a child;
Like the sweet balm of Gilead soothing every ache,
Healing our wounds for Jesus Christ's sake.

We want a religion that contenteth the soul,
That will help us to love God better than gold;
Sending blessings from Heaven which angels shall bring,
Removing from death its venomous sting.

as well as the tragedy of starved bodies.

"Better be a pauper and feel like a king than be a king and feel like a pauper."

Character was seen to be the true riches.

Thirdly, this young man was a social leader, a nobleman. The life of frolic and pleasure seeking was exposed in all of its emptiness to the thoughtful young men and women who listened with great earnestness. The description of the get-rich-quick trying to break into society was pathetic.

Mr. Brown believes with President Wilson that "society, so-called, is a side door to moral, mental and spiritual oblivion."

In the fourth place the preacher noted the enthusiasm of this particular young man. He ran to Christ. He did not wait for an introduction, neither did he send in his card.

Brown believes in being "enthusiastically religious." His description of the "social wart of a church that never experiences even a pious grunt" was rich. And then when he told of the pastor of such a church preaching on "The Dangers of Religious Enthusiasm," the congregation almost lost some of its usual dignity. Then finally inviting his hearers to the neighboring cemetery to behold such a preacher exhorting the dust and bones of the departed not to destir themselves because of the dangers of religious enthusiasm—the climax was perfect, a typical Brown climax, in which true genius and sanctified common sense combined to drive home the truth with a steam hammer.

In conclusion, it was shown that this young man lacked decision of character. It requires character to stand for the right. The young man or woman who has force of character sufficient to stand out before all the world for Jesus Christ is the one who will win out in the battle of life. The appeal was strong, indeed.

In the after meeting over one hundred came forward, thereby expressing their determination to come out in the clear for Jesus Christ, most of whom were high school students. It was a happy scene and many a mother's and father's heart echoed the song of the heavenly angels—"Glory to God!"

Tonight will be Tropico night. Brethren Smith and Rider have lined up the entire city for this meeting. It will be a great time to visit with our cousins from the neighboring berg. Tropico is the gate to Glendale and visitors never fail to remark how neat and attractive the gate has been made, especially of late. Three cheers for Tropico!

A union mass meeting of the young people of the vicinity will be held each Sunday evening during the tabernacle meetings at the First Baptist church at 6 o'clock. The Epworth Leagues of the different churches will have charge of the meeting Sunday, February 28th. Subject, "Winsome to Win Some," Psa. 126; Acts 2:46-47. The Christian Endeavor societies will have charge of the meeting March 7th. Subject, "How to Make This a Happier World," Prov. 3:13-18. The meeting on March 14th will be a final grand rally under the united leadership of all societies. Further announcements relative to this meeting will be made later. There will be some special music and all young people are urged to be present and to take part in every meeting.

Remember the early Sunday morning prayer meeting, 8 o'clock, at the Baptist church. All young people expected to be present.

Saturday afternoon at 2:30 Mr. Brown will continue the interesting series of the Holy Spirit. Saturday night service at 7:30. Big meeting planned for the conclusion of the second week of the campaign.

One more important notice: The Sunday school rally for which there is being made such extensive preparation is announced for 10 o'clock on Sunday morning at the tabernacle. The various Sunday schools will meet at their respective places of worship at 9:30, promptly, for marking records, etc., and then march in their several groups to the big rally. What a crowd it will certainly make. And providing we don't forget our hymn books, what singing there will be. Building committee, please inspect the edifice and drive a few more nails.

Harry E. Bruce and wife and daughter Florence, who have been living for several months at 1610 Vine street, moved Thursday to La Crescenta, where they have had a beautiful home built. Mr. Bruce has charge of the G. & M. electric railway at Montrose. Their house at 1610 Vine street will be occupied by Gordon Reel, a rural mail carrier.

Miss Frances Peckham of 125 S. Jackson street was the recipient of also two birthday cakes on which a surprise party on Saturday night, given by her mother, Mrs. C. L. Peckham in honor of her fifteenth birthday. This being also near the birthday of George Washington the decorations were in the national colors and the favors were little cherry trees filled with candy. There were were red, white and blue candles. The evening was spent in dancing by the twenty young high school boys and girls present and music was also enjoyed. Altogether it was a very enjoyable occasion and one that will be long remembered by the young hostess and her friends.

FIRES IN THE PHILIPPINES

The fighting of fires in the dry season is a grave problem in the cities and pueblos of the Philippine islands. House construction is light, the roofs being made from nipa palm leaves, the framework of bamboo and the sides of either nipa or sawali—a woven product of certain species of bamboo. When this material has been exposed continuously to the sun for several months it becomes as inflammable as tinder. Fires that break out in the nipa districts always gain great headway before any kind of an alarm can be sent in, even where there is a fire department. Fires in such districts spread with great rapidity. In thickly populated areas it is not uncommon for a fire to burn several hundred houses before it is stopped.

VALUE OF FILM

amazing offerings as commonplaces. This is as it should be; for, while the human mind is dazzled by novelty, it cannot discover the possibilities that lie within its grasp. It is blinded by the sufficiency of the present. When the glitter of newness tarnishes, the imperfections become apparent, and we endeavor to correct them. The motion pictures shown today would have been regarded as the acme of perfection twenty years ago—the pictures of twenty years hence will make the ones of today an amusing recollection. We are only on the threshold of this remarkable storehouse of knowledge.

Much has been said in depreciation of the commercialism necessary in the production of films, and yet commercialism frequently points the way to education and improvement. Few have attained to that exalted altitude of unselfishness where time and money is sacrificed for the common weal. Shrewd commercialism discovers what the people need, and, while it exacts a tribute for the use of its capital and brains, it develops each new idea until its value is established. Commercialism flooded the world with books, and millions of people were rescued from the serfdom of ignorance; it brought music and drama to a higher plane, and by perfecting the inventions of the world's thinkers it rendered another service to the advance of civilization. Instead of deploring its interest in the motion picture, we should be eternally grateful; for commercialism has already lifted the film from the slough of doubtful amusements, and has made it the broadest educational institution in the world—an institution that numbers its pupils by the millions, and solves the problem of imparting knowledge by entertaining methods. Educators have commenced to realize the tremendous importance of the new factor in their work, and an insistent demand has induced several manufacturers to specialize in this class of films. The legislators of California and Wisconsin have set aside appropriations for the purpose of educational subjects for use in the schools. And now the National Educational Motion Picture association, a benevolent organization under the direction of public-spirited men and women, purposes to teach the legislatures of other states the value of motion pictures by furnishing a free film service to the public schools of the nation.

It will please me mightily when similar organizations turn their attention to the religious film, for I cannot conceive of a more effective method of spreading the gospel than through accurate pictures of its dramatic messages. And I could not devise a better plan to relieve the taxpayer from the imposition of the closed church. A service of films on religious subjects might be established and the churches thrown open every day of the year. The billions of dollars tied up in church property are exempt from taxation, and yet, with the exception of a few hours each week, the buildings are hermetically sealed to the very taxpayer who cheerfully shoulders the burden of expense. The public is unjustly deprived of a full return for its money, and has the right to demand that religious bodies shall manage their secular affairs with the same economy and efficiency practiced in the business world. With the churches opened for daily instruction in the truths of Christianity, the Biblical film would receive attention, and attain a perfection which would eliminate much of this talk of languishing religious interest. The greatest dramatic events in the world are contained in the Bible, but many of the sporadic attempts to adapt them to the motion picture have failed because accuracy was sacrificed to the desire for greater dramatic effect. Biblical subjects require special knowledge in preparation, and the clergy has considered that dignity forbade collaboration. This attitude cannot be maintained in the light of present knowledge, and in a little while I hope to see the film recognized as one of the most valuable accessories to religious work.

The moral uplift of the photoplay should not be ignored, nor the promise it holds out for the future in this splendid field. People are restless in the house, for home life is seldom free from monotony. Every man, woman and child needs mental or physical occupation during each waking moment, and when this is lacking the demand arises for "somewhere to go." It is these moments that present the most serious problems to the clergy, for that desire for occupation must be guided into harmless channels. Many forms of amusement and social intercourse have been arranged in church work to provide for these dangerous periods of restlessness, but they are not always free from the deadliness of insipidity, and their appeal is limited. The motion picture theater is the ideal "somewhere to go." The low admission charged is within reach of the poorest families, the entertainment provided is vividly attractive to all classes, and the instruction is within the scope of all mentalities.

The man who comes home from work and desires relaxation is not so prone to seek the corner saloon when he can obtain a mental stimulus in the theater at less expense. Recent statistics show a remarkable decrease in the number of saloons in neighborhoods where motion picture theaters have been established, and I would not be surprised if it eventuated in a partial solution of the saloon evil. The tired wife finds relief from the petty irritations of housework in the romances of the photoplay; the boy and girl treading the roseate path of courtship have a place where they may be together, free from the dangers of solitude, and the theater furnishes children with an absorbing attraction for their active little minds while it educates. Best of all, it eliminates that insidious enemy to the home — separate amusements. The family can enjoy the pictures together. It remains, then, for every one to act in concert, and to insist on well-conducted theaters, and the best in films.—Rev. Madison C. Peters in Paramount Magazine.

BIG CITRUS CROP

A citrus crop of practically the same size as last year, 48,000 cars, with an enormous increase in the lemon crop and a slight diminution in the orange yield, compared with last year, was forecast Thursday by General Manager Powell of the California Fruit Growers' exchange.

"The associations report that the fruit was never finer than this year and that lemon trees were never fuller," said Mr. Powell. "My own observation is that California oranges and lemons will be extra high quality this year."

Speaking of the lemon yield, Mr. Powell stated that all indications are that the crop will run between 7500 and 8000 cars. The biggest previous yield was in the season of 1910-11, when the crop was 6891 cars. Last year the crop was just over 3000 cars.

In other words, the lemon groves, though hard hit in the frost of two winters ago, have "come back" with redoubled strength, for the new acreage that came into bearing this season was small.

"What prices will be on lemons is a problem," said Mr. Powell. "Due to the war in Europe, the markets over there have been closed to Italian lemons, with the result that the only outlet for Italy's surplus of 8000 cars has been the United States. Lately, however, there has been a falling off in the abnormally large imports of Italian fruit, due to the shortage of box shooks abroad."

Regarding the anticipated 40,000 cars of oranges, Mr. Powell stated that the extra high quality of the product should aid in keeping prices at a reasonable level.
